MEMORANDUM OF LAW

I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Habeas corpus Petitioner Mark Bailey was convicted in a jury trial in the Court of Common Pleas of Potter County of 4 Counts of Aggravated Assault, 4 Counts of Simple Assault and 4 Counts of Endangering the Welfare of a Child. (18 Pa.C.S.A. §2702, §2701 and §4304) At trial Petitioner was represented by Attorney Harold B. Fink. At all stages of appeal and now before this Honorable Court, Petitioner is represented by Attorney Samuel C. Stretton. Issues raised by Attorney Fink at trial and post trial are raised herein as well as a claim of ineffectiveness of counsel raised for the first time by Attorney Stretton on behalf of Petitioner before the Superior Court of Pennsylvania.

Petitioner was arrested after several fractures of the 7 month old victim were discovered at the local hospital on September 24, 1996. This infant was the child of Petitioner's paramour.

Upon interview by the Pennsylvania State Police Petitioner acknowledged that he may have accidentally injured the infant on several occasions. He also acknowledged that he had difficulty controlling his temper.

Petitioner was tried by jury which returned verdicts of guilty. Petitioner seeks habeas corpus relief from his incarceration as a result of those convictions.

II. ISSUES

Petitioner fully sets forth the issues in his petition. All relate to the alleged ineffectiveness of his Attorney Harold B. Fink before the trial court.

The Superior Court of Pennsylvania has fully examined all of these issues (Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Appellee v. Mark Bailey, Appellant, #1451 Pittsburgh 1998, Memorandum Opinion filed August 10, 1999). The Superior Court's Memorandum Opinion fully sets forth the standard of review relative to ineffectiveness claims in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (Id. at pg. 7-8). The Superior Court correctly concluded that each of Petitioner's claims of ineffectiveness of counsel were without "arguable merit" and affirmed Petitioner's judgment of sentence.

III. ARGUMENT

A. EVIDENCE OF PRIOR BAD ACTS

Petitioner complains that evidence of his prior bad acts were improperly admitted at trial. This issue was fully examined and correctly resolved by the Superior Court (Id. pg. 16-26). Petitioner's claims relative to each of these issues is without merit. At trial Petitioner presented a defense that he did not intend the harm that the victim suffered and placed his own character in issue. These factors opened the door for the Commonwealth to fully examine these issues on cross examination of the Petitioner and his witnesses once the Petitioner had opened those doors. Respondent is unable to expound upon these issues beyond the analysis of the Superior Court.

B. LIMITING OR CURATIVE INSTRUCTIONS

This allegation of error relates to testimony that was produced relative to Petitioner's failure to visit with his son. The Superior Court of Pennsylvania correctly found that this was not so similar to the incident alleged and for which Petitioner stood trial, such as to prejudice the Petitioner, and thus no curative instruction was required.

Likewise the Petitioner complains of the prosecutor's closing remarks regarding the Petitioner paramour's daughter Jennifer. The Court did provide a limiting or curative instruction (N.T. 392-93).

These allegations of error are fully resolved by the Superior Court's opinion at pgs. 27-28 and pg. 32.

C. DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S EXPRESSION OF PERSONAL OPINION

Once again this issue is fully addressed by the Superior Court in its Memorandum Opinion (pgs. 28-32). This claim is without merit because all of the prosecutor's comments fairly related to evidence produced during the trial or were a "fair response" to the argument of the Petitioner's counsel to the jury. Specifically, Petitioner's counsel argued that the Petitioner was a "fine young man". This argument was in response to the issues raised by Petitioner and his counsel during trial and in closing. Viewing the closing statement, the Commonwealth as a whole, the comments were fair and did not create prejudice to the Petitioner.

D. TRIAL COUNSEL'S FAILURE TO PRESENT CHARACTER EVIDENCE

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court in its Memorandum Opinion briefly touched on this issue at pgs. 14 and 15. Further, in fact the Petitioner did present character evidence. He produced both his Priest and his Mother who provided testimony relative to his character.

Initially consider the testimony of Brother Michael Hicks (N.T. 284 at Sec.). At pg. 288 trial counsel asked the following:

Based on your knowledge of Mark and observations of Mark, particularly as it relates to the interrelationship between him and Lori and her children could you, do you have any opinion as to whether Mark had formed any intent at any time to harm the children?

Additionally the Petitioner called his Mother to the stand at trial. She was questioned regarding Petitioner's character particularly as it related to his inclination to cause any harm to a child. Defense counsel asked of Mrs. Bailey "have you ever seen Mark harm, physically harm any child?" Further the witness was asked:

Based on your observations and of course on the historic knowledge of your son, do you, what do you have to say about Mark's propensity to place any child in danger or hurt any child? (N.T. 299)

This certainly is evidence regarding Petitioner's character.

Now Petitioner's counsel states that character witnesses would have been called "which include his Mother". Certainly there is nothing that she could add to the testimony which she already produced. What significance would there be to her now offering that she is aware of his reputation in the community and that reputation is one of nonviolence or peacefulness. Certainly Petitioner suffered no prejudice because of the lack of character witnesses.

E. CORPUS DELECTI

This difficult area of the law was appropriately addressed by the Trial Judge as well as the Superior Court. The Memorandum Opinion from the Superior Court at pgs. 8-14 fully addresses these issues and respondents are unable to expound upon that proposition of law any further. Included in the Superior Court's Opinion is an analysis of the Trial Court's charge to the jury which fully addressed the issues presented by the corpus delecti rule.

F. VERDICT AGAINST THE WEIGHT OF THE EVIDENCE OR EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT TO SUPPORT VERDICT

Petitioner's argument regarding this issue is coincident with his position relative to corpus delecti. The Superior Court addressed these issues in its footnote at page 11 of its Opinion. If Petitioner's corpus delecti argument fails and the statement of the Petitioner to the Pennsylvania State Police is admissible, clearly the argument regarding the weight and sufficiency of the evidence must fail.

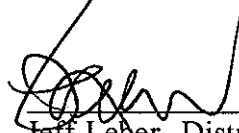

G. TESTIMONY OF EXPERT WITNESSES

This argument again is coincident with the corpus delecti argument. The Superior Court addressed this issue first at pages 8-11. The Superior Court repeats the very complete opinion of the Trial Court. In essence the corpus delecti rule does not require that every possible other cause of an injury other than criminal conduct must be ruled out in the Commonwealth's production of evidence. Any differences that were contained in the opinion's of the respective doctors go merely to theory rather than to the cause. All of the physicians agreed that the "...injuries were purposefully inflicted on the child" (Superior Court Memorandum of Opinion at pg. 10).

IV. CONCLUSION

Each of Petitioner's claims of ineffectiveness lack arguable merit. Petitioner was effectively represented by counsel at trial and therefore habeas corpus relief is not warranted.
